Title: Clinical Chats Season 2 Minisode

Hosts: Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson and Dr. Tammy Bennett, Carissa Ruf

Duration: 00:04:42

Carissa Ruf [00:07]

Hello and welcome to Clinical Chats: a podcast for sexual and reproductive health care providers. We're kicking off a brand-new year, a brand-new season, and an exciting new format. I'm Carissa Ruf, the new producer of Clinical Chats.

I'm excited to be behind the scenes to help bring engaging and informative episodes to the sexual and reproductive health community. We thought we'd start this session with a shorter episode, or a Minisode, to introduce ourselves and share what's ahead for the podcast in 2025.

Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson [00:31]

I'm Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson. I'm currently the Director of the Clinical Training Center for Sexual and Reproductive Health. I'm new to the podcast business, so this is exciting for me. I've been a women's health nurse practitioner for over 30 years and spent the majority of that time in Title X.

When I'm not seeing patients or providing Title C trainings, I love to spend time outdoors and I also love to spend time listening to my boys' band, watching the occasional Chiefs game, watching the Chiefs win, and doing some wine tasting.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [00:59]

And I'm Dr. Tammy Bennett. Hello everybody. I'm the Associate Director for the Clinical Training Center [for Sexual and Reproductive Health] and your other co-host. I'm also a women's health nurse practitioner that's been working in Title X settings for almost 20 years and also have a background in low risk OB care and absolutely loved every minute.

I'm glad to be here. When I'm not working, I enjoy sewing and crafting, spending time with my husband, our four dogs and our daughter.

Carissa Ruf [01:27]

Thank you, both of you. Before we dive into what's coming in 2025, we'd like to take a moment to acknowledge Katherine Atcheson, who hosted Clinical Chats so expertly for so many years.

Katherine brought incredible energy and insight to this podcast, and we're so grateful for her contributions. She really helped establish Clinical Chats as a trusted resource in the field. So thank you Katherine for all you've done to bring education and meaningful conversation to our listeners. We're excited to build on your work as we take this podcast in a new direction.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [01:54]

So Kristin, let's share what's on the horizon for Clinical Chats this year.

Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson [01:57]

We have an exciting lineup planned. This season, we'll launch a four-part series on the quality family planning recommendations. These episodes are going to explore changes within the clinician network and Title X and sexual and reproductive healthcare overall.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [02:11]

And one of my favorite topics - we're going to be diving even deeper into syphilis prevention and treatment, congenital syphilis, and how we can make a difference within the Title X community to eradicate this infection. We're also leaving space for other hot topics that may emerge throughout the year.

Carissa Ruf [02:28]

And we would love to hear from you. If there's something you'd like to hear us discuss or a question you'd like answered, please reach out to us at info@ctcsr.org.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [02:43]

We can't wait to take this journey with you in 2025. Whether you're here for in-depth discussions on the QFP or practical tips on patient care, we're here to connect with you those experts in the field.

Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson [02:54]

Thank you for listening to this mini episode of the Clinical Chats, and don't forget to subscribe, share, and send us your topics. You can find us on all major podcast platforms and on our website.

Carissa Ruf [03:04]

And as always, thank you for your dedication to advancing sexual and reproductive healthcare.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [03:09]

Take care everyone.

Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson [03:10]

We'll see you next time on Clinical Chats.

Bloopers

Carissa Ruf [04:15]

Scene. Yay - that was so much better.

Dr. Tammy Bennett [04:19]

We should have said, "Y'all are gonna wanna stay tuned after for our bloopers." [Laughter]

(Beep)

Dr. Tammy Bennett [04:25]

Oh no. I'm gonna start again. I forgot the doctor, man. It's still new! [Laughter]

Carissa Ruf [04:31]

That's important!

(Beep)

Dr. Kristin Metcalf-Wilson [04:34]

...request. Dang it. That doesn't sound right. [Laughter]

I messed that up, you guys. Ok..
